Moments To Remember '93

G.C. students made it happen on the way to '93. We focused our attention on the events of the moment and accepted whatever feelings each experience offered. We always knew that each G.C. student was a one and only, and the year's memorable moments certainly proved that fact. We discovered that there didn't have to be a serious reason for everything we did. We had assurance and conviction about what we did and were confident that we did everything extremely well. We definitely didn't live on the fringes of life. So join us as the yearbook staff presents all the excitement of the faces, places, and events that made so many special MOMENTS TO REMEMBER '93.

Top: G.C. Principal Mike Thoroughman in an intense conversation with WLGC's R.K. Possum (aka Sherri Tackett, substitute teacher.)

Life At G. C.

So life occasionally gave us some dents in '93. So what? Dents were necessary, as well as unavoidable. They made us stronger and taught us to savor the happy times. G.C. students enjoyed both the ups and downs as we made our MOMENTS TO REMEMBER '93. Top Left: Tonya McClanahan and Kathy York. Top Right: A Senior Celebration. Above: Rick Nyderek exhibits one of the hair styles of '93. Center Right: Jason Pennington gives a little extra effort to earn that "A". Right: Tereza Bond gives the gift of life.

The Times of our Lives

No one at G.C. was without a contribution to make to those memories of '93. We participated, we worked, we were involved! We learned to cherish the qualities that made us unique. We formed the friendships that enriched our lives. The experiences shared among friends give us all an edge on living making many MOMENTS TO REMEMBER '93. Top Left: Lara Harris and Scott Boggs clean their lockers. Top Right: Teri Taylor portrays the little old lady from Pasadena during the spring variety show. Left: Amy Jo Burnett displays the pumpkin carving she did in home ec class. Above: David Watkins, Robert Adkins, Tim Sowards, and Gary Hannah take care of loading one of the pop machines.

We've all met certain people who inspire laughter, hope, or changes in us. We look forward to seeing them. We leave their presence believing in ourselves, aware that we can tackle any problems. G.C.'s student and teacher population provided many such people as we targeted '93's MOMENTS TO REMEMBER.

That's What Friends Are For

Each experience we have plays its part in the total picture of our lives. The steps we have taken, the path we travel today, and our direction tomorrow are not by chance. There is a pattern. We each have a destiny. The many MOMENTS TO REMEMBER '93 allowed G.C. students to step out and meet that destiny. Top Left: Seniors clown away MOMENTS TO REMEMBER: Angie Baker, Missy Hale, Amy Claxon, Kyle Howard, Heather Smith. Top Right: Michelle Franz and Tabitha Salyers, our resident gourmet cooks. Left: Cliff Reed and Jamie Butler do K.P. duty. Above: Donna Carver and George Porter participate in the mock wedding reception held by the home economics department.

As the photos on these pages clearly show, G.C. students knew how to balance their life-styles. We took some risks and stepped out to meet our futures. We discovered who we were and where we wanted to go. And--we had fun along the way. At Right: G.C. students wait their turn to participate in the annual volleyball tournament, with all proceeds going toward a scholarship fund. So many exciting MOMENTS TO REMEMBER '93!!

Student life at G.C. took in a little bit of everything in '93. Through our wide variety of activities and academics, we found that if we wanted something badly enough, we could achieve it. It took patience, very hard work, a real struggle, and a long time, but we did it and were rewarded with great MOMENTS TO REMEMBER '93. Left: Freshman home room members Arron Brown, Harold Brown, Kevin Bretz, and Chuck Clark pose for the camera on hat day.

A Patchwork of Memories

The Year In Review - Musketeer Mini-Mag

OVERDONE.

Amy Fisher was sentenced to 5--15 years for shooting the wife of her alleged lover, Joey Buttafuoco. Within two months all three major television networks had shown movies dramatizing the case.

DIVORCED.

Gregory Kingsley, a 12-year-old boy, "divorced" his mother so that he could be adopted by a foster family who had been caring for him.

ELVIS. When the new Elvis postage stamp was unveiled in June, postal patrons had selected the younger King over the more mature Elvis.

GOOD-BYE.

After 11 seasons, viewers no longer had a regular Thursday night date at Cheers. The highly successful NBC series brought back former producers and writers for the last few episodes.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION. History was made in the fall of 1992. Presidential election as a third-party candidate, H. Ross Perot, captured the imagination of many voters. Major party candidates George Bush and Bill Clinton appeared on talk shows and crisscrossed the country making personal appearances to sway the electorate. The Clinton/Gore campaign motto was "Putting People First" as they toured the country by bus, making scores of personal appearances. The Bush/Quayle campaign used a whistle-stop tour to reach voters. Both Barbara Bush and Hillary Clinton were active, often campaigning apart from their husbands. Even Murphy Brown, inhaling, and spelling were part of the hard-fought campaign. In the end, however, it was Clinton's combination of small-town roots and broad visions of change that tipped the American public in his favor.

THE BLIZZARD OF '93. Greenup Countians were digging out as the Blizzard of '93, being dubbed "The Storm of the Century", dumped up to 30 inches of snow on us. Businesses and schools shut down as record low temperatures hampered snowplow crews and motorists trying to clear roads and free ice encrusted cars. Hitting us rather suddenly, the storm was an unexpected late-winter, middle March surprise.

WACO. A religious compound in Waco, Texas, became the scene of a tense standoff when cult leader David Koresh and his followers opened fire on ATF agents who were there investigating a report that weapons were being stockpiled. Four ATF agents were killed and 15 were injured, and a war of nerves ensued as officials waited for Koresh to surrender. The surrender never materialized, since the compound eventually exploded..

SUICIDE DOCTOR. Dr. Jack Kevorkian, the so-called "suicide doctor", raced against time when a Michigan law was passed making assisted suicides illegal. Kevorkian, who had helped 15 terminally ill patients end their lives since 1990, vowed to continue his work until Feb. 25, when the law went into effect.

GREENUP COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL SURVIVES FLU, FLOODS, AND FLURRIES

JANET RENO WASTES NO TIME TAKING THE HELM. Miami prosecutor Janet Reno won unanimous Senate approval to become America's first female attorney general. Reno, 54, took command of the 93,00 employee Justice Department. She is expected to display a style quite different from her recent predecessors. Reno drew praise and support from both Republicans and Democrats

CONGRESS. Not only did the American people choose a new president in 1992, but they elected many new faces to Congress. After complaints about governmental gridlock and a check-bouncing scandal, anti-incumbent sentiments were high. A record-setting number of women and minorities were elected, including Carol Mosely Braun of Illinois, the first African-American woman to be elected to the Senate.

WINNERS AGAIN. G.C.'s Jr. Varsity Cheerleading squad successfully defended their '92 national title by winning a second consecutive National Cheerleading Championship in Orlando, Florida. They continued our well-known tradition of athletic superiority as they exhibited their gymnastic ability.

CLAMPTON TRIUMPHS WITH 6 GRAMMYS. Eric Clampton collected six trophies, including album of the year for "Unplugged" and record and song of the year. The 47-year old British guitarist picked up his first award of the night for "Tears in Heaven," a melancholy tune written after the death of his 4-year old son in a fall from the 53rd floor apartment in 1991. The other big grammy winner of the night was the music from the Disney movie, Beauty and the Beast which claimed 4 grammys. Vince Gill swept the country awards with "I still Believe In You."

G.C. MUSKETEERS EYE YEAR'S ACTIVITIES

BLAST ROCKS WORLD TRADE CENTER. An explosion apparently caused by a car bomb in an underground garage shook the World Trade Center in New York with the force of a small earthquake, killing at least nine people, collapsing walls and floors, igniting fires, and plunging the city's largest building complex into smoke, darkness, and fearful chaos. Over six hundred were injured, four hundred of them requiring hospitalization.

The Academy Awards presented the annual Oscars. The Best Picture went to Unforgiven. Clint Eastwood, star of Unforgiven also won the honor of Best Director. Al Pacino was named the Best Actor for his work in Scent of a Woman. Emma Thompson won Best Actress honors for Howard's End. Best Supporting Actor went to Gene Hackman, for Unforgiven. Best Supporting Actress was a surprise win by Marisa Tomei for My Cousin Vinny. The highly unusual movie with the surprise ending, The Crying Game, was awarded the honor of Best Original Screenplay.

G.C. LOSES ONE OF ITS OWN. Life is a process of letting go. Watching people move out of our lives is never easy. Experiencing the hurt, surviving the pain that tears us apart emotionally, stretches us to new heights. We at G.C. lost one of our own this year when we lost Steve Spence. We'll remember the good times with him, and we'll miss him.

This past year saw further proof that the Cold War was over, while other countries flexed their muscles in the latest hot spots. In December, Russian President Boris Yeltsin and former President George Bush agreed to START II, a continuing reduction of nuclear arms by Russia and the U.S.

MASHBURN GOES PRO. Pitino knows best: Mash picks the NBA. Kentucky All-American candidate Jamal Mashburn stayed true to his unassuming style as he quietly announced He'll step into basketball's fastest lane next season. Though reluctant to leave UK, Mashburn, as well as Coach Rick Pitino, expressed full confidence that he can hold his own against the world's best players.

Student life at G.C. involved both working and playing, both of which G.C. students did very well. Top: Angie Griffith, Tara Melvin, and Andrea Williamson eye the action from the dugout. ## HIGHER & HIGHER

Marching Band's success makes for Musical Moments

The GCHS Marching Band completed a very successful and exciting year filled with hard work and dedication. The show theme, Higher and Higher, was a perfect description of the band's aspirations for the year. By setting new goals and reaching them, the band earned a new reputation not only in the community but throughout the world.

Directed by Terry Thompson and Stephanie Bentley, the band was awarded three superior ratings and competed in state competition. The band also marched in the Inaugural Parade.

The newly dressed band performed their best at the state competition.

An American Reunion Presidential Inaugural Parade

The GCHS Band joined with Fairview and Russell High Schools to form the Northeastern Kentucky High School Band which attended the 92-93 Clinton/Gore Inaugural Parade. Consisting of 172 students, the band spent many hours of practice and fundraising to make this historical event possible. The seven-bus caravan, carrying students, parents, band directors, and visitors, made an exciting and fun-filled trip to Washington, D.C. one that will never be forgotten. Not only did this trip allow students to see all the many sights of D.C. and play for the most important person in the country, but it also gave some area high school students a chance to tear down the competitive walls that once stood between them. Students who were previously big rivals were now allies. The inaugural trip allowed students to truly define the word BAND. The Northeastern Kentucky Combined High School Band was definitely a group of people who came together to work toward a common goal. Not only did they reach their goal, but they made a dream come true.

Greenup County's Dance Team

Among the many extracurricular activities at Greenup County High School is our national award-winning dance team. Selected by audition each spring, team members put in long hours both here at school and at the dance studio to perfect their crowd-pleasing routines. With fund-raising, costume selection, and lots of dancing, these ladies find themselves very, very busy.

Most squad members have a serious interest in dancing as a way to express their creative and artistic sides. Sponsored by Jennifer Barnes and Tammy Jo Edge, the team has met with much success both locally and at national competeion in Florida. Pictured above: Danika Barnett, Ella Pennington.
